Hillary competitive in Georgia

Raleigh, N.C.- Should she run, Hillary Clinton is poised to make Georgia a swing state in 2016. The former Secretary of State leads national GOP frontrunner Rand Paul by five points (48-43) and 2012 running mate Paul Ryan by three (47-44), ties Jeb Bush at 45\%, and lags Chris Christie by only two (42-44). She also leads unlikely candidates Sarah Palin by 13 (51-38) and the state's former representative Newt Gingrich by four (47-43). In every matchup except those against Bush and Christie, Clinton has more Republican support than her opponents have Democratic votes.

Georgians are still evidently mad at General William Tecumseh Sherman 150 years after he burned his way through the South. He has only a $16 \%$ favorability rating, with $28 \%$ seeing him unfavorably. $56 \%$, however, have forgotten who he was.

Georgia Democrats, in particular, are still mad at one of their own, Zell Miller, who endorsed George W. Bush in 2004. They are split, with $34 \%$ seeing the former senator favorably, $32 \%$ unfavorably, and $35 \%$ not sure. That compares to $64-7$ with Republicans and 45-25 with independents, for 47-21 overall.

Voters narrowly support Georgia State students being able to form a White Students Union, 43-36. But it should be no surprise that there is a stark racial divide on that question, with half of whites for it and more than half of black voters against it.

Georgians are still almost 2:1 against gay marriage, but opinion has moved a net 10 points in favor of it since PPP polled the state in December. Then, $27 \%$ thought it should be allowed and $65 \%$ not. It is now 32-60. As everywhere, support decreases across the age spectrum, with voters under 30 strongly in favor (56-31) and seniors least (22-69). It is therefore a matter of time before it has majority support everywhere. Also as most places, voters are already in support of civil unions. $57 \%$, including $71 \%$ of independents and $67 \%$ of Democrats, support legal equality for same-sex couples. A huge $72 \%$ do not believe employers should be able to discriminate on sexual orientation, including even 53\% of Republicans.

PPP surveyed 520 Georgia voters between August $2^{\text {nd }}$ and $5^{\text {th }}$. The margin of error for the survey is $+/-4.3 \%$. This poll was not authorized or paid for by any campaign or political organization. PPP's surveys are conducted through automated telephone interviews.
